

ABSTRACT

Dina Puji Prikasih . 2016. Study Ethnobotany Plant Medicine for Community In the Buninagara village of West Bandung regency. Supervised by Dr. Cartonno, M.Pd., MT and Mrs. Ida Yayu Nurul Hizqiyah , S.Pd., M.Si.

Research on "Study Ethnobotany Plant Medicine for Community In the Buninagara village of West Bandung regency" was conducted in July 2016. This study aims to determine the types of medicinal herbs used by communities Buninagara village as a drug. The method used was survey method exploratory with the techniques of Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA). Community engagement obtained through interviews with semi-structural techniques guided by a list of the question such as: local names of plants, parts used, methods of using, and processing methods. Data were analyzed by qualitative method is to describe the overall data obtained during the research process. The results of the interviews obtained 47 species of medicinal plants are utilized by people in the Buninagara village. The results showed that the villagers Buninagara still many who use medicinal plants. Analysis of the family that is widely available in the form of family Zingiberaceae. And the part that is often used is the leaves.

Keywords : Buninagara Village, study Ethnobotany, medicinal plants, exploratory surveys and Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA)

