Luthfi Fathya Zahra. (2017). The Role of Parents in Improving the Learning Achievement of Children in Sukaratu Village, Malangbong Sub-district, Garut Regency. Essay. Department of Citizenship Education. FKIP-UNPAS.

Family especially parents is the main and first source in the process of child development and includes aspects of education. Therefore, it is very important that the awareness and active role of parents in trying to optimize the implementation of education in children, so as to be able to motivate, guide, and support the child to be a smart child and achievement in every academic learning activities. However, not all parents have the awareness to provide motivation in applying education both in the home, school, and community environment optimally and impressed only giving up children's development, both academically and mentally in school. Based on these problems, the authors are interested to examine the role of parents in improving children's learning achievement.

The research method used in this research is case study by applying observation, interview, and documentation. Research subjects in this study are parents who have children aged 13-18 years. Meanwhile, the object of his research is the community in the Village District Sukaratu Malangbong Garut.

Based on the results of research can be concluded that the role of parents is very important to motivate children to study hard and will have a good effect on the learning outcomes of children. However, if there is no willingness and encouragement from the child himself the success of learning achievement will not be achieved because the parent role alone is not enough.
