

ABSTRACT

This research aims to know the influence of communication and motivation of working toward the accomplishment of work at PT. Telkom Indonesia in Bandung. The sample in this research totalled 70 respondents. This research uses descriptive method and verifikatif. Methods of data analysis used is multiple regression analysis, test the hypothesis that is a test of the F and t-test, analysis of the multiple correlation coefficient analysis, and partial and simultaneous determination. A classic assumption test previously done to know the accuracy of linear regression analysis. The results showed that communication and motivation of working simultaneously as well as partial effect significantly to achievement of work. Variables that influence communication is dominant.

Keywords: Communication, Motivation To Work, Work Achievement