Learning presents creative ideas of the narrative text oriented to majas metaphor in praesetia relating to writing skills. The example non-example learning model aims to encourage students to learn critical thinking by solving the problems contained in the examples of images presented. Therefore, researchers are interested in conducting research using the example non-example model. The problem formulation the researchers propose are: 1) Can the researcher carry out learning activities presenting creative ideas of narrative text oriented majas metaphor in praesetia by using the example non-example model in class VII Pasundan 2 Junior High School Bandung academic year 2018/2019 ?; 2) Can the class VII students of Pasundan 2 Junior High School Bandung in 2018/2019 take part in learning to present creative ideas of narrative texts oriented on the front of the metaphor in praesetia by using the example non-example model ?; 3) How effective is the application of the example non-example model used in learning to present creative ideas of a narrative text oriented towards the metaphor in praesetia in class VII Pasundan 2 Junior High School Bandung academic year 2018/2019? The research method that researchers use is the Quasi Experiment method with the design of the one group pretest-posttest. The results of the study are the average value of planning and implementation of 3.64; the average value of pretest is 42.93 and posttest 80.33; So, there is an increase of 37.4. The results of statistical calculations prove  $t_{hitung} > t_{tabel}$  that is  $16.19 > 2.04$  in the 95% confidence level of 5% significance level and 29 degrees of freedom. Based on these facts, researchers conclude that researchers succeed in learning to present creative ideas in the form of imaginary stories with example models non-example.
