ABSTRACT

Reading skills are closely related to writing skills, one cannot write if they have not read before if someone has problems in writing, it is a sign that the person has problems in reading skills. In addition to reading skills, speaking skills also affect the process of writing skills. Speaking is needed in order to understand the content or meaning contained in the reading clearly, making it easier for someone to write. Learning a novel review text is an activity in learning that contains material reviewing a literary work, especially a novel with regard to the structure and text elements of the review. In the Indonesian Language curriculum into the 2013 curriculum it is necessary to conduct an evaluation related to that, it is necessary to conduct research on the learning of the novel's review text. This research was carried out with the aim of describing several things, which include learning planning text novel review, the implementation of learning text novel reviews, and assessment of novel review text learning in class VIII D Pasundan 4 Middle School Bandung. The implementation of learning to compile a novel review text for students VIII D is carried out in one meeting. Activities carried out consist of (1) initial activities, (2) core activities, and (3) closing activities. When learning takes place, the teacher runs learning with a positive assessment. The results of the pretest data obtained a minimum score of 25, then a maximum score of 62, the total value of 780. Then the results of the posttest minimum score of 50, then the maximum score of 95, the total value of 1,546. Regarding the effectiveness of audiovisual media as evidenced by the results in class VIII D most of the respondents in the high category were 20 people or 100%. That is, Numbered head together media is more effective because it gets a higher response in learning to review the novel review text focusing on orientation structure using the Numbered Head Together method. Based on this statement, it can be concluded that the Numbered Head Together method is effectively used in learning novel review texts.
