

ABSTRACT

Thesis Report with a scientific paper discusses the contribution of CSR PT Freeport McMoRan in development in Timika Papua as a program by the company for the surrounding community. Development is a process of change made through conscious and planned efforts by building people or communities through the development of skills in farming, livestock, entrepreneurship by holding training and art skills, and organizing the community by placing the community as the perpetrator, where the community will more learning and realizing a society that is empowered or independent. Development through the CSR program as an inevitable thing for the company that stood on its territory in the hope of helping to improve the welfare for the community around the company.

The purpose of this research is to know how PT Freeport Corporate Social Responsibility, to know how far the contribution of Corporate Social Responsibility in development in Timika, and to know the condition of society after Corporate Social Responsibility applied.

The method used in this research is an analytical descriptive method, which describes events and events that exist in the present by collecting, organizing and interpreting data which is then proposed by analyzing the phenomenon.

The results obtained show that CSR contribution through this development program gives a good impact one of them access roads and public facilities such as sports complex and make the community become independent and able to meet their needs, assist in improving the health, education and economic through socialization and direct assistance carried out with local agencies for communities in the Timika region of Papua.

Keywords: PT Freeport McMoRan, CSR, Development.