

ABSTRACT

The soul of nationalism in college students has begun to decrease lately, this causes students to be indifferent to their nation and country, and some even understand the spirit of nationalism but not yet implemented. This study tries to uncover the role of political education in nationalism for college students , what obstacles cause college students to be less interested in politics, and what efforts should be made to make college students interested in political education that will affect the nationalism of the college student. This study uses a qualitative approach with descriptive methods and data collection is done through observation, interviews, and documentation studies. This study aims to, 1). Knowing the Pancasila and citizenship education college students at the Pasundan University on the meaning of the spirit of nationalism. 2). The influence of political education courses on the nationalism of the students of Pancasila education and citizenship at Pasundan University. 3). What are the efforts of lecturers of political education in Pancasila education and citizenship to develop the spirit of nationalism towards students. This research got some findings, one of them was the student who was still idealistic in his area because there were many students from outside the region or outside the Sundanese tribe, which caused students to be less interested in politics.

Key words : political education, soul of nationalism