ABSTRACT

This research titled "The Effect of Role Stress and Burnout on the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance". The main purpose of this research are to understand the Effect of Role Stress and Burnout on the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor in Inspectorate in Bandung District.

The method which utilized in this research are descriptive and verification method. Simple linear regression are utilized as well in order to understand the similarity of the Role Stress and Burnout; correlation analysis to discover any relations between the Role Stress and Burnout and the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance; determination of coefficient to find out the contribution of the effect of Role Stress and Burnout and the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance and hypothesis testing (t-test) to find out the significance of Role Stress and Burnout and the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance with the help of IBM SPSS 25 Version For Windows.

The result us that the Role Stress on the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance had a significant effect on the contribution of influence of 33.9%, and then the Burnout on the Effectiveness Internal Auditor Performance had a significant effect on the contribution of influence of 38.4% and the Role Stress and Burnout on the Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance simultaneously has a significant effect with contribution of influence of 72.3

Keywords: Role Stress, Burnout, Effectiveness of Internal Auditor Performance