ABSTRACT

This research is entitled "Analysis of Social Values and Character Education Values in a Collection of 11:11 Short Stories by Fiersa Besari as Alternative Teaching Materials". This research is a qualitative research type with a qualitative descriptive approach, because the purpose of this research is to describe social values and character education values in the short story 11:11 by Fiersa Besari. The results of this data analysis will then be used as an alternative Indonesian language teaching material for students in class XI of high school. The submission of this research was carried out on the basis that short stories as a literary work are good teaching tools to foster social values and character education values for students. The collection of short stories entitled 11:11 by Fiersa Besari was chosen because it has a quality value system and has relevance to the lives of students who are still teenagers. The results of this study obtained information about the values of character education contained in 11 short stories by Fiersa Besari. Of the 11 short stories, there are five short stories that have the highest social value points and character education values. The results of the analysis of social values and the value of character education in the collection of short stories by Fiersa Besari as teaching materials are in accordance with the demands of the class XI high school curriculum, because they contain KI, KD 3.8, namely analyzing the values of life in a collection of short stories read.
