This research is motivated by the discovery of problems such as a lack of mutual respect and a lack of tolerance. The aim of this research is to find out the embodiment of the values of tolerance in the Munjungan tradition in Cimanglid village. The research method used is a case study because the munjungan tradition is carried out only in Cimanglid Village. Data collection techniques include observation, interviews and documentation. The research results show that: 1) The implementation of the Munjungan tradition in Cimanglid Village is going well. Preparation after preparation was well prepared by the newlyweds and the newlyweds' families and assisted by neighbors and family, the luggage to be carried was prepared in such a way. 2) The embodiment of the values of tolerance is going well, especially religious tolerance, because with the Munjungan tradition we can maintain friendship, putting aside religious differences. In addition to the value of religious tolerance, there is also a cultural tolerance value with cultural tolerance as an embodiment of tolerance values in Cimanglid village because the two sides of the same tradition and culture are interrelated. 3) The obstacle in carrying out the Munjungan tradition is the economic factor, because each family's economy is different.
