

ABSTRACT

This study aims to find out how the role of the PPKn teacher has on the habit of skipping school for students at MTS Negeri 5 Indramayu Regency. The research method used is a case study. Data collected through observation, interviews and documentation studies. The results of the research study show that schools have anticipated the habit of skipping school from students. The PPKn teacher's role in truancy behavior shows that the teacher has tried as much as possible to minimize the habit of truant students. To overcome the habit of skipping school through reprimands by the teacher, calling in counseling teachers to students and giving punishments that educate the causes of students skipping school include being bored with learning certain subjects, school fence facilities that have been damaged, and the location of the school which is located in near the rice fields of the people.

Keywords: teacher's role, student behavior, and skipping school